STAFF REPORT

The cause of a single-vehicle accident from which a Leitchfield man was airlifted Monday morning remains unknown.

Ema Sapp Jr., 64, was reportedly driving west on the Blue Grass Parkway, about 15 miles north of Springfield, when the accident occurred. About 10:25 a.m., Sapp's 1995 Ford Taurus reportedly ran off the roadway and struck the guardrail, according to a press release from Kentucky State Police.

Sapp, who was not wearing a seat belt, was ejected from the vehicle.

A helicopter landed at the scene and airlifted Sapp to the University of Kentucky Medical Center, the press release stated.

The accident occurred in Man faces more than 2,000 child porn charges

ERIN L. MCCOY

A Bardstown man is facing more than 2,000 counts of distribution and possession of child pornography.

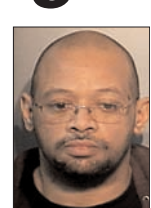

On Feb. 2, Bardstown Police and the Kentucky State Police Electronic Crime Branch conducted a search warrant at the home of Richard Keene, 44. KSP reports that it seized a computer allegedly used to distribute child pornography, along with thousands of explicit videos and images. These items were reportedly examined by the KSP Forensic Laboratory before Keene was arrested Feb. 16.

The arrest was the result of an undercover investigation that began in September 2011, KSP reported in a press release. Keene came under suspicion after detectives reportedly discovered someone sharing images of the sexual exploitation of children on the Internet, the release said.

Officer Jason Woodson, who heads the Bardstown Police Department's Cyber Crimes Unit, said the two agencies decided to work together when they realized they were investigating the same person.

"We were both working the case and KSP had a little more than what I had at that given time, so we agreed to work mutually," he said.

Magistrates voted by a slim margin to increase garbage and landfill fees at a meeting of Nelson Fiscal Court Tuesday.

District 2 Magistrate Jeff Lear and District 5 Magistrate Jerry Hahn opposed the increase, lobbying instead to keep landfill rates the same and increase garbage by a smaller amount.

The increases for which magistrates Sam Hutchins, Bernard Ice and Keith Metcalfe ultimately voted will raise the landfill tipping fee for compacted trash from $10 per compacted yard to $12.50 for Nelson County customers. The monthly garbage pick-up fee will increase from $12.50 to $14.50 over a period of two years, with a $1 increase each year.

The more gradual increase is a result of Hahn's concern the increase was too steep all at once, Nelson County Judge Executive Dean Watts said.

But Hahn ultimately seconded Lear's motion to increase garbage only $1 per month and leave landfill

Alleged armed stalker flees police

ERIN L. MCCOY
emccoy@kystandard.com

A Bardstown man indicted for stalking and weapon possession has been accused of leading a Bullitt County deputy on a chase down Interstate 65 that ended in a crash.

Namon Edward Milburn Jr., 21, reportedly fled when Dep. John Miller discovered him with a woman who had taken out an emergency protective order against him only four days before.

Milburn was indicted in Nelson Circuit Court last week on charges of first-degree stalking, possession of a handgun by a convicted felon and second-degree persistent felony offender. He was also charged with two counts of first-degree criminal abuse for allegedly inflicting torture and cruel punishment on two children sometime between Nov. 1, 2011, and Jan. 31, 2012.

Milburn was arrested for fourth-degree assault in Nelson County Jan. 31 after allegedly stalking a woman, according to Nelson County Sheriff's Department Detective Jason Allison.

"We'd received multiple complaints at that residence over a period of time," he said.

Milburn was allegedly discovered that day in possession of a .22-caliber handgun, illegal for a convicted felon. Milburn was convicted of complicity to theft by unlawful taking and complicity to tampering with physical evidence in 2010.

The woman took out an emergency protective order against him the day he was arrested, Allison said.

STAFF REPORT

Note: The indictment of a person by a grand jury or otherwise is an accusation only and that person is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

The following people have been indicted by a Nelson County grand jury. They are set for arraignment in Nelson Circuit Court March 8.

- Jerry Robert Hockenbury Jr., 34, theft by unlawful taking, complicity to theft by unlawful taking, second-degree persistent felony offender. Sometime between Jan. 6 and Jan. 21, either acting alone or in concert with Shane Showalter and Brandon Armstrong, Hockenbury allegedly took more than $16,540 worth of aluminum from Synergy Tool and Gauge. Bail was set at $9,500 cash only, plus conditions.

- Brandon Lee Armstrong, 23, Louisville, theft by unlawful taking, complicity to theft by unlawful taking. Sometime between Jan. 6 and Jan. 21, either acting alone or in concert with Shane Showalter and Jerry Hockenbury, Armstrong allegedly took more than $16,540 worth of aluminum from Synergy Tool and Gauge. Bail was set at $9,500 cash only, plus conditions.

- Shane D. Showalter, 22, Louisville, theft by unlawful taking, complicity to theft by unlawful taking. Sometime between Jan. 6 and Jan. 21, either acting alone or in concert with Brandon Armstrong and Jerry Hockenbury, Showalter allegedly took more than $16,540 worth of aluminum from Synergy Tool and Gauge. Bail was set at $9,500 cash only, plus conditions.

- Russell Franklin, 41, Waddy, trafficking in marijuana (8 ounces to 5 pounds), complicity to trafficking in marijuana (8 ounces to 5 pounds). Franklin, either acting alone or in concert with others, was allegedly found in possession of marijuana Nov. 15, 2011. Bail was set at $9,500 cash only, plus conditions.

- Scotty Jewell, 66, Bloomfield, trafficking in marijuana (8 ounces to 5 pounds), complicity to trafficking in marijuana (8 ounces to 5 pounds), second-degree persistent felony offender. Jewell, either acting alone or in concert with others, was allegedly found in possession of marijuana Nov. 15, 2011. Jewell was previously convicted of assault under extreme emotional disturbance. Bail was set at $9,500 cash only, plus conditions.

- Scottie Wayne King, 33, Mount Eden, trafficking in marijuana (8 ounces to 5 pounds), complicity to trafficking in marijuana (8 ounces to 5 pounds). An attempted robbery in which the suspects were allegedly armed with a gun and a butcher-style knife ended with one suspect in the hospital Jan. 29.

Demetrius Watkins, 34, and Claude Owen McMakin, 23, both of Bloomfield, were indicted in Nelson Circuit Court Wednesday on charges of first-degree robbery and complicity to first-degree robbery. Watkins faced an additional first-degree persistent felony offender charge after being previously convicted of second-degree robbery, theft by unlawful taking, first-degree wanton endangerment and a number of other charges.

“The robbery appeared to be a home invasion type robbery. One of the suspects fled, the other one was detained by the homeowner and associates,” Nelson County Sheriff’s Department Detective Jason Allison said.

McMakin was allegedly on the scene when deputies arrived, and was treated at the hospital before being taken to jail, Allison said.

It was unclear as of press time how many people were present during the alleged robbery and how they managed to detain McMakin.

Watkins’ bail was set at

Ag commissioner explains office goals

James Comer in town for Lincoln Day Dinner

LISA TOLLIVER
ltolliver@kystandard.com

Agriculture Commissioner James Comer wants to stress transparency as he begins his first term in the state office.

"Taxpayers want transparency," Comer said.

Elected in November, Comer has just five weeks under his belt as agriculture commissioner. But he already has a plan to improve on the role and make his department accountable to the people who elected him.

Comer talked about his plan Saturday night at the Nelson County Organization of Republican Women's Lincoln Day Dinner. Part of the plan means being as transparent as possible. His first week in office, Comer called for an audit of his department after former Agriculture Commissioner Richie Farmer, who ran as lieutenant governor on an unsuccessful ticket with gubernatorial candidate David Williams, left the position.

If Comer is able to do what he plans, another audit of his department won't be necessary, he told the group of Republicans gathered for the dinner.

"The people will be the auditors," he said.

Comer and his staff are working on a website that will show, line by line, the expenses and revenue for his department's $28.5 million budget.

"You'll be able to see where every penny goes," he said.

Comer served as a state representative for 11 years before being elected ag commissioner. During those 11 years, he said he tried to pass bills in the General Assembly calling for transparency in government.

"We can't get those bills passed but we are going to do it in the Department of Agriculture," Comer said. "We're going to set the example."

Transparency is just one of his goals for his first term in office. Comer also wants to expand markets for Kentucky farmers by working with the state Chamber of Commerce and expanding the Kentucky Proud program. His third goal is to expand rural economic development by forming a rural economic model around Kentucky.

His goal is to increase the number of agriculture-related jobs in the state and make use of Kentucky's idle lands.

"Agriculture is the most important industry in Kentucky," Comer said. "It's a $5 billion industry."

In addition to laying out his plan as ag commissioner, Comer was also at the dinner to thank Nelson County voters for their support last election.

"I want to thank Nelson County for the overwhelming support," he said.

In November, Comer received 64.1 percent of votes in Nelson County, slightly higher than his state percentage of 63.7.

"A lot of people crossed over in that election to vote for me," Comer said. "That just goes to show you can win in Kentucky as a Republican, but it's hard."

Other speakers

Also speaking at the Lincoln Day Dinner were State Rep. David Floyd, state representative candidate Donna Pegago, Nelson County Magistrate Jeff Lear and Jason Hasert, a representative for U.S. Sen. Rand Paul.

Pegago said she entered the race for state representative with the purpose of showing the average citizen that you can run for political office if you have enough drive.

"Our government has become such that citizens with leadership skills don't even think about running. They think you have to be wealthy and well-connected and I don't think it should be this way," she said.

She encouraged others to follow her lead and be willing to step up and "put our selves out there and be willing to serve" to make the changes needed in today's society.

Elected in 2010, Lear began serving as a Nelson County magistrate at the beginning of 2011. With one year under his belt, he's got a better idea how things in the county work. Being the only Republican on Fiscal Court, Lear said he finds himself on the losing end of a lot of 4-1 votes. But instead of looking at it as a defeat, he considers it only losing by four votes.

Like Pegago, Lear encouraged others to get involved with the political process.

"Be engaged and pay attention," he said. "Let your opinion be known."

He encouraged others to step forward to serve.

"I'll keep fighting the fight for you but I need some help," he said.

Floyd introduced himself to the crowd making fun of his switch between political seats this year.

"I'm David Floyd and I'm running for state representative. No, I'm running for state Senate, no state representative," Floyd said to a laughing crowd.

Floyd, who is a candidate for the state representative seat he currently holds, first filed to run for re-election to that seat but when the new boundary lines were drawn for state House and Senate representation due to the 2010 U.S. Census figures, Floyd withdrew that filing and filed to run for state senate. But after a judge threw out the new boundary lines, saying they were unconstitutional, Floyd then re-filed for the state representative post.

At the dinner, he read a message from U.S. Sen. Mitch McConnell. McConnell's letter encouraged Republican voters to continue fighting to get the incident. The woman had inhaled some smoke so emergency workers on the scene gave her oxygen and took her blood pressure, according to Mattingly.

Spalding and an elderly woman were the only ones present at the home during

Prior damage to the flue may have led to the fire, he

"It was all minor damage," Mattingly said. "It didn't burn a spot as big as a basketball."

Film and Play Reviews

The world's deadliest CIA operatives are inseparable partners and best friends until they fall for the same woman. Having once helped bring down entire enemy nations, they are now employing their incomparable skills and an endless array of high-tech gadgetry against their greatest nemesis ever — each other. Tuck (Tom Hardy) and Franklin — "FDR" to his friends (Chris Pine) — have been best friends and partners in their work it seems forever. Nothing has challenged this camaraderie until now ... And it's a woman who has nothing to do with their work. You see, they are CIA operatives, very skillful agents.

Tuck and FDR have cover jobs while they are at home. Neither is a particularly interesting occupation. They have trouble keeping a girlfriend because they never know when they'll be called away without explanation. So when they accidentally meet Lauren (Reese Witherspoon), her openness completely seduces them. With FDR (Pine from the reboot of the "Star Trek" franchise), there is some hesitation because the meeting is kind of cutesy and stiff. So we don't know how that is going to work out. That gives Tuck (Hardy from "Inception" and the upcoming "Batman") a head start even though he is British. The movie is well-written enough so that we really can't tell whom she is going to pick. Pine has the top billing so that may be a clue as it is with most romantic comedies. But Hardy is the underdog.

There is much familiar with this comedy, but enough freshness to keep your interest. There is almost a bromance between Pine and Hardy, leaving poor Witherspoon to separate them. In the background there is Tuck's ex-wife and his pre-teen son who is getting trashed by his judo coach because Tuck has to hide his CIA training. But we know that the coach will get trashed before the film ends. There is a real spark between Witherspoon and each of the men in their respective scenes; so expect to keep guessing who will be the loving couple at the end — or maybe there will be two couples.

There are some loose ends and some scenes which appear to have been cut short, but the film is a satisfactory action/romance comedy. You will not think of Cheetos or paintball games quite the same again. TV's Chelsea Handler is Lauren's pal and contributes the comedy and perhaps the PG-13 rating.

Family Rating: PG-13. Originally, this film was rated R for "some sexual content," but one scene was edited in order for it to receive its current PG-13 rating with plenty of rough language. The R-rated version will be released on DVD. Also featuring Til Schweiger, Angela Bassett, Abigail Spencer, and Rosemary Harris. Directed by McG. Musical score by Christophe Beck and numerous pop songs. (1 hr. 38 min.)

Also opening: GHOST RIDER: SPIRIT OF VENGEANCE. [Unpre-viewed].

Family Rating: PG-13 for intense sequences of action and violence, some disturbing images, and language.

THE SECRET WORLD OF ARRIETTY. [Unpre-viewed]. (Do not be seen by humans. That's been the law of children of the under-floor.)

Family Rating: G-Rating for nothing to offend in this family film.

Fairfield is more than a post office

Fairfield is not losing its identity but it is losing its post office.

The Postal Regulatory Commission signed and delivered its decision for the Fairfield Post Office Feb. 9. A May 18 closing date was announced.

Understandably, Fairfield residents are upset with the decision. Since early last year when the U.S. Postal Service announced it was looking at closing a number of its smaller post offices to try and cut losses during some financial woes, Fairfield residents have held their collective breath. Fairfield was on the list of possible closures, along with about 2,000 others.

Residents spent much of last year signing petitions, attending meetings and generally hoping the post office would remain open in Fairfield. The closure was pushed back each time one of these meetings was held. But with the final decision just announced, it appears the post office will be closing in May.

Like most businesses, the U.S. Post Office had to look at the bottom line when making its final determination. The institution lost nearly $8.5 billion in the 2010 fiscal year. With e-mail, bill payments online and the economy pulling at the purse strings of the USPS, it was obvious some changes need to be made. The closing of the Fairfield Post Office is expected to save about $39,000 a year. That may seem small compared to the major financial problems being faced by the U.S. Postal Service but multiply that by thousands of similarly-sized post offices that are also facing closure and you start to see the big picture.

Decreased transaction through the years at the Fairfield Post Office put the post office on the list to be closed. It's open minimally on the weekdays — 10 a.m.- 2 p.m. — and doesn't employ any rural route carriers. The 94 post office boxes and mail residents in and around Fairfield are serviced by mail carriers from Bloomfield, Taylorsville and Cox's Creek post offices. The post office is mainly a convenience for local residents and a form of tradition in the town.

Rural post offices popped up around the nation years ago to be able to service everyone. But with a mobile society such as what we have now, those small post offices are not needed like they once were.

And with at least two post offices — Bloomfield and Cox's Creek — within six miles of Fairfield, it would seem feasible USPS would save money by closing the office.

There was a time when travel was limited for residents and post offices were the epicenter for many rural communities. But not so much anymore. Consolidating post offices seems a natural choice.

The one bright spot for Fairfield is the identity of the town isn't wrapped up in its post office. Fairfield has a history of its own that the closing of a small post office won't diminish.

Just five miles from Bloomfield, Fairfield is nestled in the heart of Nelson County. The city was formed when a small number of Catholics settled a mile from the present site in 1795. Early residents called the town Turkey Town because of the abundance of the bird. The city, incorporated in 1820, was a thriving town in the 1800s. Fairfield once boasted dry goods dealers, blacksmiths, livestock traders, cobblers, a hotel and even a distillery — the now defunct H. McKenna Distillery.

The U.S. Postal Service might be able to take Fairfield's Post Office, but it can't take its history.

Who's that girl?

When you pass a woman on the street, do you ever wonder, who's that girl? Does she have a family, a nice house or a great career? Then she is gone.

You sit next to a woman in the movie theater and she bursts out with laughter during the film; do you ever wonder who is she? Does she like comedies? Then she is gone.

Do you ever notice the woman in the line in front of you at the grocery store? You exchange smiles and small conversation about the crowded store or the weather — then she's gone.

Do you ever notice the girl cashier at your local market? She says good morning how are you? You reply she thanks you and tells you to have a good day — then she is gone.

Who's that girl walking her dog down the street, it starts to rain and she and her dog scamper a little faster to get out of the drizzle—then they are gone.

Who was that girl? Someone's sister, girlfriend or daughter?

Did that girl grow up and have a good life, a family, wealth and happiness?

There is always a story behind the eyes of every face you see.

Those stories hold the key to who they are.

There may be illness, pain or grief.

There may be love lost or love found.

There may be joy of newfound wealth.

There may be happiness from a new life.

Or may be that face is just someone you once knew.

Hard knocks of life come early

Laboratories for human development. One way to describe our education system in America. Many of our schools — public, private and charter — are in trouble. Not only are they struggling to pay the bills in a world of escalating costs for capital construction and maintenance as well as the cost of payroll, they are facing enormous obstacles from the students themselves. Schools need help from much more than teachers and students, they also need families, politicians and taxpayers to be a part of the team.

As a former school board member, my eyes were opened to concerns most people never see. The use of drugs, illegal and from the parents' medicine cabinet, is concerning. Smoking is still a problem. Discipline in school is threatened by legal action if not done by the book and despite all of this, calls I received from parents during my terms and when they came to school board meetings always made us and the school the bad guy. I remember once at a hearing on a student who had been disruptive in class and had even threatened a teacher, the mother threw a book at us and yelled something about my tie. Books are good for more than reading.

Yet today, my concern is one that every teacher faces, parents fear and students run into every day — bullying. The cliques of boys and girls who get together to make fun of other kids, to force them into doing or being someone they don't want to be, ridiculed for their looks, their clothes and even their background of being your kid. There is no escape. And to say it doesn't happen in your school is taking the ostrich approach and burying your head in the sand.

All of us have to face cliques everywhere we work or socialize. There are always the popular ones who get their way and everyone else defers to and if you think it is bad as an adult, just imagine what it is like for a teenager and even younger kids. Yet, the school is at a loss to fix the problem. Unless someone is caught in the act of harassing someone or overtly bullying, the school can't do a thing. Even if a student reports a problem, with no proof and backup, again the school can do nothing. No wonder students are reluctant to come forward, without anyone backing them up, they are at the mercy of the bullies who are now angrier than ever because they were turned in. I have heard the term "mean kids" more than I care to hear and like everyone else, I get angry but mostly frustrated about what I can do, what we can do, to fix the problem. Yet, the problem is not schools or popular bullies, it is human nature and we simply have to be aware that it goes on and that our children are at risk. At risk of failing in school, at risk of becoming one of these mean kids, at risk of being terrified to go to school and at worst, the risk of suicide. You must be aware of what your kids are going through and be there to help them through it while you can.

Some students change schools, some drop out and some just take the abuse and suffer emotionally for years into adulthood. Adults often can't relate because we have matured enough to weather rude people, but younger people have yet to develop this immunity. Again, public schools, private schools, and charter schools are included in this epidemic. In the past, it was less a problem because schools weren't so overpopulated. With crowded halls and buses, the problem is huge.

Rude people are all around us. They can be mild annoyances or deadly enemies, depending upon how you respond. Our kids, grandkids and neighbors' kids need our help. Their cries are silent.

»»GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Halfway through session casinos considered

FRANKFORT — We have reached the halfway point of the 2012 General Assembly Session. There are daily committee meetings, policy briefings, visits from constituents, and meetings with various advocacy groups.

Early in the week, the Senate passed Senate Bill 103 in a bipartisan vote that will require a doctor performing an abortion to first perform an ultrasound (which is done anyway) so that the woman may view it, if she wishes. The woman will not be forced to look at the picture. However, it is important, as with any medical procedure, for the woman to have the fullest information possible. It can also be hoped that the mother will have the opportunity to perhaps reconsider her decision.

In addition, we passed House Bill 121 that will require all POW flags sold in Kentucky to be made in the United States. These flags represent our men and women who gave up a portion of their lives, undergoing mistreatment and worse, in defense of America. It is only correct that these symbols be made with American labor.

I would like to give you an update on some of the other major issues being discussed in Frankfort. As many of you have heard, Senate Bill 151, the casino bill, was introduced this week. It would provide for up to seven full casinos around Kentucky, some at horse tracks, others free-standing. It would give monopolies of the licenses free to the horse tracks. There is no other state that gives constitutional protection to a private company. Some note that any revenue would go to vague and general purposes such as job creation, education, social services, and the horse industry. We don't know how much or exactly for what precise purpose. The lottery was supposed to go to education as well, as you may recall. The constitutional amendment is being heard next week in committee. I will keep you posted on the evolving events.

Also this week, the Senate Health and Welfare Committee heard again from the Medicaid managed care companies. We are getting flooded with phone calls, emails, and messages from both providers and patients with legitimate complaints of late payments and delayed authorizations, often for procedures that should be routine. In one incredible case, a woman in labor arrived at the hospital and the managed care organization required a pre-authorization before reimbursing. Fourteen days later with mom and baby safe at home, the company still hadn't authorized the birth! The committee asked for a timetable for the correction of these problems. As the chairman of the Program Review and Investigations Committee, I have also held several meetings on this serious topic.

Finally, I was proud to sign my name to a brief filed with the U.S. Supreme Court that challenges the constitutionality of Obamacare. It is my belief that the Federal Government has no Constitutional power to force free citizens into purchasing a product from a private business, in this case, health insurance. In this action, I've joined 300 other state legislators throughout the country, and 59 lawmakers from right here in Kentucky, whose Attorneys General have not challenged this law. Legislation to this effect has been introduced various times but all have been blocked in the House of Representatives. While I am committed to promoting the public welfare and the health of all Kentuckians, I am firmly against the encroachment upon individual freedoms and states' sovereignty.

There are several ways you can obtain more information on the goings-on in your capital city. You can log on at www.lrc.ky.gov. There is a toll free message line at 1-800-372-7181 or call me at home at (270) 692-6945. If you call 1-800-633-9650, you can hear a taped message of information on legislative committee. To check the status of a bill, you may call the toll-free Bill Status Line at 1-866-840-2835.

Note: Senator Jimmy Higdon (R-Lebanon) represents the 14th District including Marion, Mercer, Nelson, Taylor, and Washington counties. He serves on the Appropriations and Revenue Committee, the Licensing and Occupations Committee, the State and Local Government Committee, the Education Committee, the Program Review and Investigations Committee, the Tobacco Settlement and Oversight Committee, and the Transportation Committee. In addition, he is also the Chairman of the Budget Review Subcommittee on Transportation.

>> NELSON CIRCUIT COURT SENTENCINGS

STAFF REPORT

The following people were sentenced recently in Nelson Circuit Court. All had previously entered a plea of guilty or had been found guilty during a criminal trial.

• John H. Turner, 47, Lebanon, was sentenced in two separate cases. His motion for probation was denied in both cases on the grounds it would depreciate the seriousness of the crime. The sentences are to be served concurrently for a total of five years.

In the first, Turner was sentenced to five years in prison for theft by deception over $500. He was ordered to pay $1,524.60 restitution to Clark Jewelers. Turner allegedly passed a check there knowing it would not be honored.

In the second, Turner was sentenced to five years in prison for theft by failure to make required disposition of property. According to court records, Turner rented a television and failed to return it or make payments on it.

• Ray A. Calbert, 35, Bardstown, was sentenced to four years in prison for tampering with physical evidence, three years in prison for first-degree possession of a controlled substance, 12 months in jail for second-degree possession of a controlled substance, and 30 days in jail for operating a motor vehicle under the influence, second offense. The sentences are to be served concurrently for a total of four years. Calbert's motion for probation was denied on the grounds it would unduly depreciate the seriousness of the crime. Calbert was ordered to forfeit items seized. According to court records, on Oct. 13, 2011, a vehicle Calbert was driving was pulled over, and the law enforcement officer found Xanax in Calbert's hat and cocaine hidden in the crotch area of his pants.

• Robert Dwayne Wheat, 36, Cox's Creek, was sentenced to two years in prison for theft by unlawful taking. He was granted probation for a period of five years following set conditions, including paying restitution and reporting to a probation officer. According to court records, Wheat used his driver's license to sell several stolen metal drainage grates, which were Bardstown City property, to Waddell's Recycling in September 2011. The grates were taken from Miller Springs Subdivision and valued at $1,141, according to a police report.

• Charles R. Hood, 19, Bloomfield, was granted a three-year, unsupervised pretrial diversion for two counts of complicity to third-degree burglary, two counts of complicity to receiving stolen property and third-degree complicity to criminal mischief. Conditions of the diversion include paying restitution to two victims. According to court records, Hood and Brandon Moss stole four wheels and tires and a motorcycle.

• Brandon David Moss, 24, Bardstown, was granted a three-year, unsupervised pretrial diversion for two counts of complicity to third-degree burglary, two counts of complicity to receiving stolen property and complicity to criminal mischief. Conditions of the diversion include paying restitution to two victims. According to court records, Moss and Charles Hood stole four wheels and tires and a motorcycle.

• Sean Davis Carney, 31, Bardstown, was granted a three-year, unsupervised pretrial diversion for cultivating marijuana, five or more plants, possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of marijuana. Conditions of the diversion include forfeiting most items seized. According to court records, on Sept. 17, 2011, officers found marijuana growing in a room where Carney was living on Springhill Drive.

more Republicans in office. Hasert spoke on behalf of Paul.

"Sen. Paul just wants to thank everyone in Nelson County for all the work you did for him in 2010," Hasert said.

County Mass Convention

Jan Ballard, a member of the NCORW and chairwoman of the Republican Party, took the opportunity during the dinner to remind those present about the upcoming County Mass Convention, where the Republican Party chooses its local and regional leadership. The convention, which is every four years, will be March 10 at Bardstown High School.

The purpose of the convention is tri-fold: to elect precinct officers, select delegates to the Second Congressional District convention and elect leadership positions for the local party.

Nelson County has 27 voting precincts at this time, and within each, the party's goal is to have a captain, co-captain and youth officer. Only residents of a precinct can vote for their officers, and those elections will occur at the March 10 meeting.

Attendees at the convention will also have the opportunity to elect 13 delegates and 13 alternates to the Second Congressional District convention May 19 in Elizabethtown. At that event, they will elect district leadership in the Republican Party.

The four top leadership positions — chair, vice chair, secretary and treasurer — in the Republican Party of Nelson County will also be up for vote.

The County Mass Convention will be in the Bardstown High School cafeteria, with registration beginning at 9 a.m. and the meeting starting at 10 a.m.

Adult, three juveniles suspected in burglary spree of firearms and electronics

ERIN L. MCCOY
emccoy@kystandard.com

An adult and three juveniles have allegedly confessed to four burglaries in which firearms and electronics were stolen.

Police have recovered a .270-caliber rifle and a .22-caliber rifle reportedly stolen from a Cardinal Hill-area residence, according to a press release from the Bardstown Police Department.

The Nelson County Sheriff's Department originally took the report on that theft, but the others occurred inside the city, on Jack Drive and Ray Wimpsett Drive, and at a home construction site, where door glass and windows were also broken out. All burglaries occurred over the last few weeks, he said.

Police are not releasing the suspects' names as they have not yet been arrested or charged, Bardstown Police Capt. Tom Roby said. But, he added, the suspects have talked with police.

"Detective (Chris) Smith — he obtained confessions and they cooperated and helped ... us get the property back," Roby said.

Police have also recovered an X-box video game system with accessories, a gym bag, and an MP3 player.

"I think we got almost all items back," Roby said.

All four suspects are male and have reportedly admitted to the crimes, he said.

When cases are presented to a grand jury, police expect the adult to be indicted and juvenile petitions to be taken against the other three suspects, the press release states.

Burglary count up to 20 for 'lawn mower bandit'

ERIN L. MCCOY
emccoy@kystandard.com

A man police have dubbed "The Lawn Mower Bandit" has been connected with more burglaries than police initially suspected — at least 20 in and around Bardstown.

When William Kevin Ballard, 46, Bardstown, was arrested Feb. 1, Bardstown Police suspected he had committed at least a dozen burglaries. Stolen items allegedly discovered in Ballard's house ranged from lawn mowers and tool boxes to tackle boxes, pressure washers and fishing poles — hundreds of items all told, Detective Lynn Davis estimated at the time.

Capt. Tom Roby confirmed last week that a number of victims had claimed their things.

"They were all from storage buildings," he said.

But not all items have yet been claimed.

"We've still got some items that, quite frankly, we think people don't know are missing," Roby said.

He suggested because many of the stolen items are used during the summertime, some victims might not realize they're gone until then.

Roby said he believed Ballard would face mostly burglary charges, in addition to charges of theft by unlawful taking.

"When the case is presented to the grand jury, each individual case should be a charge," he said.

Man accused of detaining woman while holding gun

ERIN L. MCCOY
emccoy@kystandard.com

Police suspect a Cox's Creek man of restraining a woman against her will while carrying a .45-caliber handgun.

Melvin R. Kennedy Jr., 45, was indicted last week for first-degree unlawful imprisonment and carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

The alleged incident occurred Jan. 14.

Nelson County Sheriff Stephen Campbell said Kennedy had allegedly detained the victim indoors and "made some kind of statement to the effect that if she tried to leave he would shoot her car or ... possibly her."

The incident started over a verbal argument and was called in to law enforcement by a third party, Campbell stated.

"Evidently she came outside to the officers when they arrived," he said. Once officers secured her safety they reportedly arrested Kennedy.

Bail was set at $9,500 cash only, plus conditions, with arraignment scheduled for 1 p.m. March 8.

The indictment of a person by a grand jury or otherwise is an accusation only and that person is presumed innocent unless proven guilty.

Nelson County Job Fair set for Thursday

According to the Nelson County Economic Development Agency ("NCEDA"), more than 25 companies will participate in the Nelson County Job Fair on Thursday, Feb. 23, 10 a.m.-2 p.m. at the Kentucky Home Square Shopping Center (Old Dawahare's location).

In addition to NCEDA, the Job Fair is co-sponsored by Springfield-Washington County Economic Development Authority, the Lincoln Career Center and the NELCO Consortium, a local organization comprised of Nelson and Washington County Human Resources managers.

"We have a diverse group of companies from the area that are planning to hire new employees in 2012 participating in this event," said Kim Huston, President of the Nelson County Economic Development Agency. "NCEDA decided to organize the event after several companies told me they were having difficulty finding people for available positions despite the unemployment rate hovering around 10 percent. Many companies prefer the opportunity to meet a potential candidate one-on-one rather than only having a resume to do an initial evaluation from."

The companies that will participate in the Job Fair include:

Orbis, Communicare, Spencerian, Your Community Bank, Homestead Family Farms, Toyotomi America, NPR, Advantage Staffing, Tower

Automotive, Sykes, Avon, Flaget Memorial Hospital, Manpower, Inc., The Yard Sale Store, Nelson County Board of Education, City of Bardstown, Life Care Center of Bardstown, Sullivan, ServiceMaster/Quiznos, Lowe's Home Improvement, The Work Connection, Peebles, Zappos, ATK, and Channel 6 Television.

There will be HR Managers on hand for possible interviews at the Job Fair and job seekers are asked to bring with them copies of their resume or work history.

For more information about the Nelson County Job Fair, contact the Nelson County Economic Development Agency at 502-348-6402, ext. 101.

Teens recognized for academic achievement

BRAD BOWMAN
bbowman@cni.com

Two Nelson County teens have been named National Merit Finalists. Students who take the preliminary SAT or the actual SAT by their junior year can qualify for the award, which screens more than 1.5 million students each year. Each year 16,000 students are named semifinalists and 15,000 are awarded as finalists. During the application process, students must get letters of recommendation and write an essay as to why they should be considered for the award.

Bardstown High School senior Bobby Butler plays center field for the Bardstown Tigers' baseball team. He has applied to Princeton and hopes to pursue a career as an astronomer or astrophysicist.

"I have always loved math and theoretical subjects about how the universe began," Butler said.

He received a 227 score on the PSAT his sophomore year and credits his mindset for his success.

Bobby Butler

Charlotte Humes

"If you are fortunate enough to be born with a mindset that is eager to learn things, homework and making good grades just follow that," Butler said.

As baseball season progresses Butler finds less time for leisure activities. But he doesn't fit any studious stereotypes. He thinks of himself as a friendly guy, enjoys going out to eat or to the movies with friends.

Charlotte Humes is a Nelson County High school senior attending The Gatton Academy on the campus of Western Kentucky University. Taking college classes while still in high school continues to be interesting for Humes.

"It can feel a bit odd at times," Humes said. "There were plenty of people in my classes who had children my age, but you get used to it."

I get to learn so much more in breadth and depth than I would have at a traditional high school, Humes said.

Humes does computational chemistry research, is active in a club that promotes environmentalism and sustainability. She enjoys doing community service and credits gratitude as her drive.

"I know I have been given a great opportunity, one which many students would love to have, and I'd hate to waste it," Humes said. "That encourages me to try my hardest to make the most of my time here."

Humes remains undecided about a career choice, but hopes to do something in the field of chemistry.

Both students have a chance to be one of the approximately 8,300 finalists given a National Merit scholarship award. Scholarship awards include one single payment, corporate sponsored and college sponsored scholarships.

Nelson Elite Cheerleaders Grand Champions

Nelson Elite Youth "Fancy Cats" placed first Feb. 11 in Louisville at Cheerlebrity Competition. In addition to their first place win, they won Best Choreography and Grand Champion awards. Their next competition will be March 4. Nelson Elite new season tryouts will be held in May. Did You Know?

Did you know shopping local makes Bardstown and Nelson County a stronger community?

- Your dollars spent in locally owned business, like Crume Drug Store, have three times the impact on your community as dollars spent at national chains. For every $100 spent, $62 is put back into the local community by locally owned business vs. $42 by national chains and essentially $0 online.
- Locally owned business build strong neighborhoods by sustaining communities linking neighbors, and by contributing more to local causes. Non-profit organizations receive 250% more support from smaller business owners than they do from large businesses. Crume Drug Store has supported numerous local causes such as the New Life Center, the United Way of Nelson County, the Nelson Baptist Association, Community Action, the Nelson County Community Clinic, and Habitat for Humanity.
- Local business are owned or managed by people who live and work in our communities, like Tim and Robbin Sizemore, raising their families and investing in our communities "future". They support our churches, our schools, our organizations, and our quality of life. At Crume Drug Store, we have supported St. Joseph School, Bethlehem High School, Nelson County Schools, American Legion Post 121, and Bardstown Christian Fellowship.
- Locally owned business often hire people with a better understanding of the products they are selling and take more time to get to know their customers. At Crume Drug Store, we strive to know you because we care about our neighbors and friends.

Shopping local is where you matter more. So stop in Crume Drug Store and experience the difference of shopping locally. At Crume Drug Store, we care more and you wait less!!

Auditions set for community theater production

Bardstown Community Theatre will have open auditions for the romantic comedy "The Faery's Kiss." The show made its debut in 2009 and has since been produced in Canada. The show's playwright, Bill Breuer will direct the show, which will be produced during the last two weeks of May.

The Faery's Kiss is a "fairy tale, romantic comedy for adults, though children age 8 and up can certainly enjoy it," Breuer said.

The story is about a bachelor who inherits a rural cottage. Everyone says the place is haunted — but instead he finds it is inhabited by an attractive woman who claims to be a Faery — and she doesn't want him there. She keeps his head in a spin while she tries to protect a secret that others are trying to steal.

The auditions are 2-4 p.m.

Feb. 25-26. Faery's Kiss and two murder mystery shows will be at the former Old Kentucky Home Intermediate School beside Foster Heights, 219 E. Muir Ave. Please bring a photo and resume if possible. For more information, contact Tony Paulin or Ashley Gilpin at ashleymarie_88@yahoo.com or 510-8782 or (502)744-4335.

rates the same.

Lear pointed to the $200,000 in administrative fees that is transferred annually into the county's general fund budget from the landfill, which he said in turn causes the landfill to demand higher fees from solid waste, or garbage, customers from the waste that garbage trucks bring into the landfill.

"The tipping fee increase, to me, in particular is more about maintaining our ability to transfer dollars to other departments than it is about landfill expansion," Lear said. "It is essentially a back door tax increase and I can't support it."

"How do you propose paying for the next construction phase?" Watts asked. The landfill proposes to begin building another expansion in about eight years, and the intention of the landfill increase is to fund part of that expansion.

Solid Waste Director Brad Spalding has said the increase that was approved Tuesday would fund about $2 million of that $3.5 million expansion.

Watts also pointed to increased expenses through the years. From 2000 to 2011, for the landfill and solid waste combined, he estimated annual fuel costs have increased $247,900 annually, labor $425,600 annually and utilities $155,000 annually.

But Lear said that if half of the administrative fees that are turned over annually are held back in the landfill budget, he believed a landfill fee increase could be delayed for about three-and-a-half years.

He added that the county took in $133,000 in tax revenue over what was budgeted last year and expects to take in $100,000 additional property taxes than projected this year. Add in projected increases in revenue from occupational license fees and distilled spirits taxes, and Lear estimated that this fiscal year, the county will take in $190,000-$220,000 above what was projected in the budget.

"There's nothing wrong with having a little rainy day fund," Watts said, saying extra projects have been funded by such additional revenue. He added that Lear's numbers were projected, not actual numbers for this fiscal year. And, Watts said, the $200,000 is an estimate based on a formula that calculates how much departments owe in administrative fees each year. Because the landfill sometimes owes more and sometimes owes less, $200,000 is a rough average.

"The problem we were asked to solve was landfill expansion, and my point is that the money is there," Lear said.

"I still say and think that it's a mandatory thing, and so whatever the fee is, they're mandatory to pay it," Hahn said after the vote. "I don't think it's fair to the public."

The increase approved Tuesday will not apply to low-income customers who qualify for reduced garbage pick-up fees, Watts said.

Culvertown Park

Fiscal Court voted to allow Gene Culver of Bent Arrow Archery to set up an archery course on occasion in the 16.5-acre Culvertown Park. Culver's was the only proposal submitted when the county advertised for other options.

Culver will not pay to use the park, but Watts said he hopes it will bring more activity to the area, because its only regular events are summertime softball games.

"It's probably the most underutilized piece of county property we have," Watts said.

Culver has already proposed several dates for 3-D shoots in the park this year, and will charge participation fees.

In other news:

- Phase 1 of bulky item pickup begins Feb. 27 in the eastern part of the county; phase 2 in the southern part of the county begins March 12; and phase three begins March 26. Anyone wishing to go ahead and bring junk to the landfill now can do so free of charge, Watts said.
- The Nelson County Senior Citizens Center, scheduled for completion on March 6, is about two weeks behind schedule, Watts said.
- "The brick is 99 percent done, the doors are in, the windows are in," Spalding said, and primer and one coat of paint are on the inside walls.
- The Workforce Investment and Division of Real Properties for Employment Office will pay $12 instead of $10.50 per square foot to lease the unemployment office on West Stephen Foster Avenue, where it has been for roughly 20 years, according to Watts.
- The Kentucky Board of Emergency Medical Services found no problems or deficiencies during its annual visit to Nelson County EMS.
- Nelson County EMS Director Joe Prewitt reminded Fiscal Court a mandated switch-over from broadband to narrow-band radio is 10 months away. Emergency services have been updating their mobile radios and are somewhat prepared for the change, but the county still needs to work on fixed equipment. The cost estimate for such equipment, including base stations and repeaters, has gone down but remains about $500,000-$600,000, Prewitt said.

- The county approved three bids for surplus vehicles, including the former dead animal truck, but turned down a bid for an ambulance chassis, which Prewitt said has some parts that can be removed and used as replacement parts for other ambulances. Once they are removed, it can likely be bid again for a similar result, he said.
- The next Feeding America food distribution is Wednesday, Feb. 22, at the Nelson County Fairgrounds.

Woodson said this was the largest number of charges he had seen in a cyber crimes case he has been involved in so far. The Bardstown Police Department's Cyber Crimes Unit has been up and running since May 2011, and Woodson said several investigations are ongoing. At least two arrests have been made as a result of Woodson's investigations.

Florida woman hit while crossing at Welcome Center

bbowman@cni.com

A woman visiting from Florida was hit crossing the road in front of the Bardstown-Nelson County Welcome Center in downtown Bardstown Tuesday.

Karen Kuhn, 63, Navarre, Fla., and her husband have frequently passed through the area and decided to finally visit Bardstown.

Keith Willett, who works with the Nelson County Maintenance, saw the accident happen.

"It sounded like two cars hitting each other," Willett said. "I saw her tumbling. She remained conscious."

The car hit Kuhn's legs and she fell onto the street.

Willett said she was conscious and could talk before EMS arrived. She was taken to Flaget Hospital.

Responding Officer Tony Satterly of the Bardstown Police Department did not find the driver at fault or in excess of speed. His findings were corroborated by witness accounts.

During Kuhn's interview with Satterly, Kuhn said she held her hand out to shield her eyes from the sun. Her hand obstructed her view from oncoming traffic and she did not use the crosswalk. Her husband was still in the car when the driver, Byron Sheckles, Bardstown, hit Kuhn.

At Flaget Hospital, Kuhn complained of pain to her

Search committee narrows fire chief applicants to three

BRAD BOWMAN
bbowman@cni.com

Members of the Bardstown Safety Commission met last night to review applicants for chief of the Bardstown Fire Department.

Bardstown City Council member Bobby Simpson, Roland Williams and Frances Lydian make up part of the search committee, which also includes Assistant City Administrator Larry Green and two members of the fire department, who narrowed it down to three candidates. Bardstown Mayor Bill Sheckles planned to review the candidates Tuesday afternoon.

"I am going to take my time, conduct interviews and background checks," Sheckles said. "Once I make my decision, I will pass it on as a recommendation to the City Council. Upon their approval, the new chief will be sworn in but there is no certain timeline for the position."

Jail, Milburn bonded out the same day.

Then, about 3:41 a.m. Feb. 4, a woman flagged down Dep. Miller from the side of KY 480, Cedar Grove Road, in Bullitt County. According to Miller's report, the woman's vehicle appeared to be broken down, and Milburn was allegedly standing beside her — the same woman Milburn had been charged with stalking.

"The female shouted that she had a EPO against the male and needed help," Miller's report stated.

But Milburn allegedly took his vehicle and drove off west down KY 480, and Miller pursued, his emergency lights flashing.

Milburn reportedly made a left turn on two wheels as he ran a red light onto the I-65 entrance ramp.

Milburn allegedly weaved through traffic as he sped south on I-65. As he approached the Exit 112 ramp to KY 245, Miller reported he swerved from the far left lane all the way across to the right, cutting in front of a semi truck, which had to brake and steer to the left to avoid Milburn's vehicle.

Miller alleges Milburn sped up the ramp, ran the red light at the intersection of KY 245, then struck the concrete traffic island and went airborne. His vehicle reportedly landed on all four wheels as Milburn cut right, then ran off the right shoulder of the I-65 entrance ramp and struck a light pole. Miller reports Milburn cut his wheels left, trying to correct his steering, causing his vehicle to overturn three times before it struck the rear of a parked semi on the right side of the entrance ramp.

The fire department was called and Bullitt County EMS transported Milburn to University of Louisville Hospital, where he was treated before being taken to Bullitt County Jail. As of Tuesday morning, Milburn remained at the Bullitt County Detention Center, held on $10,000 and $25,000 cash bonds and being held for Nelson County.

Bail on Milburn's Nelson County indictment was set at $200,000 cash only, plus conditions, with arraignment scheduled for 9 a.m. March 8.

In Bullitt County, Milburn has been charged with two counts of first-degree wanton endangerment, first-degree wanton endangerment (police officer), first-degree criminal mischief, violation of Kentucky EPO/DVO, first-degree fleeing and evading police (motor vehicle), reckless driving, license to be in possession, speeding and disregarding traffic control device.

Top angler offers tips

With a name like Whitey Outlaw, he might be suited to be a country-western star, or maybe a World Wrestling fighter, but to those who know the name, know he is one of the top crappie fishing pros in the country.

Whitey has been fishing crappie tournaments since he was 15, when he won his first tournament on his home lake, Santee Cooper in South Carolina.

He has fished every CrappieMasters major tourney since, and he and his partner, Mike Parrott, won the organization's Classic three years ago.

At the recent CrappieMasters Florida Championship on the Harris Chain of Lakes, fished from Taveres, I had the opportunity to fish with Whitey in a media event on Thursday before competition began the next day. I've been fortunate to fish with a number of tourney anglers and appreciate the opportunity. Most of the anglers are great people and I always learn from them.

Fishing with Whitey didn't produce many large fish. A cold front had slowed fishing. I would have thought it was just the Phil Junker jinx, but most other anglers also found fishing tough.

However, I was able to pick up a number of pointers from Whitey:

- "I 'push' everything (meaning he uses poles in front of the boat while trolling)," said Whitey. "I find I get better quality fish out front of the boat, rather than trolling long lines out the back."

- He also is a believer in live bait. He usually uses tandem hooks. On top is a hook only and on the bottom is a jig. He places minnows on both. "Using live bait helps take the color factor out of it. The fish will bite the minnow."

- He enjoys hunting and finding the fish as much as he likes catching them. He also is an avid hunter from deer to birds. When he is "hunting" fish he uses poles set at multiple depths until he has success at a certain depth and then he sets the other poles to the depth where he is finding the action.

- White crappie tend to stay put. Black crappie use vegetation as structure, while white crappie prefer wood structure. ... The two things that tend to move the fish are temperature and the moon.

- Some people have the misconception that crappie only spawn on shore, but in reality they will spawn in 8-10 feet of water.

- On cold mornings fish tend to not bite, especially down here (Florida) when cold fronts roll through. It is bad for fishing. ... Fish hit better in the afternoon when the water warms up some.

- Among Whitey's sponsors is B'n'M Poles. He has helped

STATE WRESTLING CHAMPIONSHIPS

Cards show flashes of the future

NC wrestlers fall just short of placing

PETER W. ZUBATY

Nelson County youngsters Andrew Ackley and Zac Lawson gained valuable experience through their successes at the Kentucky State Wrestling Championships over the weekend, experience their coach says should propel them to greater things in the future.

"Zac is just a sophomore and Andrew is just an eighth-grader, but they wrestled levels above their age and experience," Cardinal coach Sean McCarthy said. "We have never had multiple state placers in the same year, but both of these young men came just one win short of ending that streak for us. These two are wrestling like veteran

Nelson County sophomore Zac Lawson looks for an opening Saturday against St. Xavier's Shayne Smith. Smith knocked Lawson out of the 285-pound bracket, but not before Lawson picked up three wins in his first trip to the state meet. Teammate Andrew Ackley went 2-2 during the meet in the 113-pound bracket.

Tigers' Tonge signs with Ky. Christian

The often quoted and insightful former New York Yankee catcher Yogi Berra once said, "When you get to the fork in the road, take it."

For most of us, the decision on which way to go is a difficult one. The choice can be life altering.

Bardstown High senior lineman Jaylin Tonge's life came to the proverbial fork in the road when he lost his dad, Brian, four years ago.

Fortunately, Tonge chose the right path and used the death of his No. 1 supporter to motivate himself to become a better football player.

His hard work paid off when he recently signed a letter of intent to play football and to continue his education at Kentucky Christian University in Grayson.

"He could have very easily gone down the wrong path when his dad died when he was 13 years old," said his very proud mother, Demitra Newby. "He has worked hard to overcome the adversity to get to this point."

Tonge admitted recently that it was not always easy.

"My dad was always my biggest fan and my biggest supporter," he said. "He was always on the sidelines during my games cheering for me. I still look over near the concession stands and see my uncles, knowing my dad is right there with them."

The 5'8, 280-pounder was dealt another setback after suffering a high ankle injury during his junior season.

"I tried to come back too soon and I wasn't really ready," Tonge said. "I did a lot of lifting and running trying to get in shape for my senior season."

"Bardstown Rehab worked with him a lot also," Newby said. "I think

BMS archery places third

The Bardstown Middle School Archery Team placed third in the Bullitt East Invitational Tournament last month. This was the first of several invitational tournaments in which Bardstown will compete prior to the 5th Region tournament in March. More than 20 schools participated in the Bullitt East tournament with 547 student archers competing for team and individual trophies.

Bardstown sixth-grader Maggie Downs placed third in the division for girls grades 4-6. Downs has been involved in the Bardstown Archery Program for two years. Downs competed against 70 other students in this division and finished with 252 points out of a possible 300, bringing her within two points of second place.

Ball-Out Classic

Bardstown City Schools is hosting a tournament for boys and girls rec and AAU teams in grades 4-8 March 2-4. Teams are guaranteed three games, with pool play and then all teams advancing to a single elimination tournament. KHSAA rules are enforced. Players must have birth certificate or official school report cards for eligibility. Cost is $20 per team. Call 348-2416 or 275-6995, or e-mail jrjump23@aol.com for more information.

Register Saturday for NCLL

The Nelson County Little League will be having in-person signups Saturday at Hibbett's Sporting Goods from 4-8 p.m. See below for more information.

Little League signups

Registration for the 2012 Nelson County Little League Baseball and Softball seasons is now under way and runs through March 3. Late registrations after March 3 are subject to availability and a late fee. Forms can be picked up at the Bardstown/Nelson County Rec Department, Hibbetts, Bardstown Sporting Goods, online at nckyllittleleague.org or by e-mailing littleleague@bardstown.com or on Facebook, or call 510-0869. Players age 4-12 are eligible, with their "league age" established as of April 30, 2012, for boys and Dec. 31, 2011, for girls. Teams are formed in late-March with play beginning in mid-April and running through early June. Cost is $60 for T-ball (ages 4-6) and $80 for all other ages, with a maximum cost per household of $170. Call 510-0869 with questions.

seniors right now, so it should be quite a treat to see what they are capable of in the future.”

Ackley won his first two matches Friday to advance to the quarterfinals of the winner’s bracket of the 113-pound division, but was knocked into the loser’s bracket by eventual runner-up J.J. Killebrew of Christian County, then eliminated by eventual fourth-place finisher Chris Abernathy of Meade County.

“I think it was great getting the first two wins,” Ackley said. “I felt like it was a better experience” this year as opposed to last year, when he went 0-2 wrestling out of the 103-pound bracket.

“It was great to see how Andrew has progressed since last year,” McCarthy said. “Making it to the state tournament as a seventh-grader is quite an accomplishment, but getting a couple wins and coming so close to placing as an eighth-grader is something that will demand the rest of the state’s attention.”

Lawson went 1-1 in early-round matches Friday in the heavyweight bracket, in some ways he tried to do more than they wanted him to.”

Tonge was a stalwart on the offensive line for a Tiger team that finished the 2011 campaign with a 10-2 record.

“Jaylin really came into his own during his senior season,” Bardstown football coach David Clark said. “He really worked hard during the off season to get ready for this past season. I am very proud of Jaylin.”

Kentucky Christian University is an NAIA school that competes against the likes of Georgetown, Lindsey Wilson and Campbellsville. Head coach Mike Furrey played eight seasons in the NFL.

Newby says that although the school is two and a half hours away from Bardstown, she’s comfortable with her son’s choice.

“We both liked the school when we made our visit there,” she said. “Jaylin understands that he is going there not just to play football but to get an education.

“The coach and his wife look after the players and each of the players has a player’s mom who keeps an eye on them,” Newby continued. “They are trying to build Christian character both on and off the field.”

Tonge has now taken the next fork in the road as he travels the path of his life. The 17-year-old understands that more hard work lies ahead.

“They told me that I will probably be playing JV ball my freshman year,” he said. “I need to get into the weight room and do more lifting. They want me to get more muscle on me.”

WENDY ACKLEY/Special To The Standard

Nelson County eighth-grader Andrew Ackley, right, went 2-2 at the state wrestling championships over the weekend.

then rallied to pin Doss’ 1 decision in overtime over Robert Green and score a 2- Fern Creek’s Gabriel Lord before being eliminated by St. Xavier’s Shane Smith, who eventually placed seventh.

“I felt like I did really well for my first experience at state,” Lawson said. “There’s a lot of good wrestlers out there. I was glad to place in the top 12.”

McCarthy was impressed by how Lawson bounced back from the second-round loss.

“I saw a phenomenal amount of growth in Zac this tournament,” he said. “Zac is a hard worker in practice and he is really starting to develop his technique, but he has been missing a level of intensity needed to perform at a high level. He found that intensity at this tournament.”

Lawson said he was able to dig down deep and find another gear after his Friday loss.

“I knew to stay alive I had to fight like a dog,” he said. “It really boosted my confidence.”

the company design crappie gear. He uses 16-foot poles and reels when he is spider-rig fishing from his boat. Yamaha trucks and Bobby Garland lures are also among his sponsors.

- In tournament fishing, time is money. He says he can’t waste time not fishing while he is re-rigging his line and poles. He keeps two-hook (one hook and one jig) made up and wrapped on a cylinder, so all he has to do to re-rig a pole is tie a new tandem on and bait.
- There has been a lot of new technology to change fishing. There are new electronics, better poles and line and other equipment. But one thing hasn’t changed. That’s the fish. ... Fishing is the same as it was 100 years ago; you still have to find them.
- Whitey would like to see a minimum 10-inch size limit across the nation. He is confident it would improve the fish quality nationally.

- Whitey loves to hunt as well as fish. In the fishing off-season he hunts nearly every day except Sunday.

“I hunt six days a week, but not on Sunday. The Good Lord game me six days a week to hunt, so I don’t need to hunt on Sunday.”

Having the opportunity to fish with different anglers always is a neat experience, even if I don’t catch fish. And frequently, I don’t. I spend most of my time with a notebook and camera. That’s my excuse, and I’m sticking with it.

Witch hazels already in bloom

Gardeners get anxious this time of the year. Warm one day, cold the next, the sun coaxes open a little patch of crocus by the path or we catch sight of an old landscape filled with waves of blooming white snow drops. This year the show is sure to come early and the forsythia are not the first to bloom, despite this oft cited sign of spring! There are other early bloomers to keep us occupied until spring truly arrives.

Right now I am looking out the window watching our Cornus mas literally pop open. I noticed the buds had begun to swell in the last week after the most recent cold snap and today's sun has warmed some buds enough to show the yellow petals that they had been protecting for months.

It is surprising we don't see more Cornus mas — or cornelian cherry — in our landscapes; it is the perfect small tree with all kinds of ornamental value. Disease and insect free, the cornelian cherry has mottled, peeling bark and is the first tree to bloom in late winter or very early spring (and if the temperatures stay on the cool side the bloom time can last for weeks), and has lustrous foliage and red edible fruit in the summer.

Although the cornelian cherry is not really a cherry, rather in the dogwood family, the tart fruit can be used to make anything in which you would use cherries. Fresh from the tree or made into syrup for ice cream is a good use ... and if you go to international markets you will see the cornelian cherry in beverages and fruit spreads.

JENEEN WICHE
» IN THE GARDEN
Syndicated Columnist

The genus Hamamelis — or witch hazel — has long been a favorite out here at the farm. Some species bloom in late fall and early winter; others pop open on warm February days. The bloom, best described as crimped, twisted and curled, by Chris Lane in his book, Witch Hazels, has a whimsical quality. The blooms also offer a spicy fragrance in the garden when not much else is going on. The different species have subtle differences but on the whole the genus is a large, vase-shaped shrub at maturity with excellent landscape value whether you are looking to naturalize or formalize the landscape.

I can't say enough good things about witch hazels. Sun or shade, average soil (certainly rich and well-drained is best), no pest problems, multi-seasonal interest and a selection that includes H. virginiana, the common American witch hazel that blooms in fall, H. japonica (Japanese witch hazel), H. mollis (Chinese witch hazel), H. vernalis (vernal witch hazel), and a group of hybrids represented by, H. x intermedia. This year most of these species have bloomed by now or just about now, always early bloomers no matter the winter.

Corylopsis glabrescens, or the fragrant winterhazel, is from the same plant family as the witch hazel (Hamamelidaceae) and you can easily see the family resemblance in the foliage. Most "hazels" have thick, sturdy leaves with a fluted quality to them ... quite attractive, in fact. The winterhazel has an open, sculptural quality to its habit, flat-topped but spreading. It is a multi-stemmed shrub but can be trained into a single stem, small tree, with diligent pruning. The plant does have multi-seasonal appeal but the best part about it happens in early spring. Before the leaves emerge the winterhazel is covered in pendulous pale-yellow blooms dangling from the wide reaching branches. It is nature at its finest.

The winterhazel is virtually pest-free, likes rich, well-drained soil, full sun to part shade and is best situated in a protected area because it blooms so early for us. Unlike the crimped, curled and twisted blooms of its cousin, the witch hazel, a heavy April frost or freeze can damage the winterhazel's blooms.

Conservation contest winners to be named Feb. 23

The Nelson County Conservation District will hold its annual awards meeting 7 p.m. Feb. 23 at the Civic Center, in Bardstown. The Conservation District Art and Writing winners will be announced and awards will be presented to all school and county winners. Schools with 100 percent participation will also be recognized.

Awards will also be presented to our 2011 Master Conservationist and Outstanding Cooperator. Refreshments will be served. The Nelson County Conservation District Board of Supervisors invites all parents, principals, teachers and friends of the contest finalists to attend the meeting.

March 1 starts new fishing license

This coming year presents some new opportunities to catch rainbow trout, blue catfish, redear sunfish, also known as shellcrackers and white crappie.

Black crappie now dominate the population in Taylorsville Lake, and a good spawn last year should lead to good fishing for blacks in the coming years.

Also, three years of white crappie stockings should lead to great fishing this spring.

"The stocked white crappie are doing pretty good," said Gerry Buynak, assistant director of fisheries for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "They are growing to about 9 inches long in less than two years. We found a few white crappie over the 9-inch limit last year, so there should be more for anglers to catch this year."

White crappie stockings will continue at Taylorsville Lake and Kentucky Lake this year as well as eastern Kentucky's Carr Creek and Paintsville lakes.

For more information on Kentucky Fish and Wildlife, visit fw.ky.gov or pick up a free copy of the 2012 Kentucky Fishing and Boating Guide, available wherever fishing licenses are sold. You may request a copy by calling the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Information Center at 1-800-858-1549.

Local woman uses Trim Down to shed excess weight

Paula Geihs started the Trim Down, Bardstown! program this year with a smile on her face. The reason for her good mood? The Bardstown woman has lost 74 pounds since last year's Trim Down — and she's kept every ounce off!

"I'm halfway to where I want to be," Geihs said on Feb. 1 of this year, the first weigh-in day downtown. Last year "I found an article on Trim Down. I said, 'It costs $5 — what do I have to lose?'"

One of the Trim Down tips has been to use the tools on sparkpeople.com. But Geihs didn't find that website helpful. Instead, she went to myfitnesspal.com., where she kept her food diary, and still does. She exercises with home video games, and keeps up with the family's puppy.

AMY TAYLOR

>> FLAGET HEALTH
amytaylor@flaget.com

"The biggest thing is — I cut out sugar," Geihs said. "I wasn't a big sweets eater. But since my husband is a diabetic — I make my own coffee creamer. I keep away from artificial sweeteners."

A food diary can keep you honest, she said. So can the many tools available online, like the carb calculator at myfitnesspal.com. After cooking for 50 years, Geihs is learning some new tricks. She's been so successful that she's inspired her family doctor.

"I feel like a new woman," she said.

Cut calories without dieting

The word "diet" doesn't mean eating less to lose weight — although that's what we commonly associate it with today. Someone "on a diet" is trying to eat less, or stop eating sweets, to fit into smaller clothing.

Diet has another meaning. It also describes the food that you normally consume — following a vegetarian diet, for example, or an American diet, or "My diet consists of protein, vegetables and fruits." Improving your normal diet by making gradual but permanent changes is a healthier way to lose weight than just restricting calories.

Low calorie and fad diets can have serious health effects — insufficient vitamin and mineral intake, fatigue, slowed metabolism, hormonal effects, and even dehydration. Dieters commonly experience intense feelings of hunger and deprivation, which can lead to binge-eating over time.

Studies show that people tend to underestimate how much they really eat every day. In doing so, we consume too many calories without realizing it. Research shows that keeping a log by recording exercise and food intake is one of the best predictors of successful weight loss.

Dr. Dennis Simms joins Flaget as primary care physician

Dennis Simms, M.D., is joining Flaget Memorial Hospital as a primary care physician.

The Marion County native is returning home to Kentucky after completing eight years of active duty in the U.S. Navy and 20 years of primary care in Meridian, Miss. Simms and his wife, Jeanne, who is also a Marion County native, were interested in returning home, the physician said.

Simms has a B.A. degree and an M.D. degree from the University of Louisville, graduating in 1987. Thereafter, he completed an internal medicine/transitional internship at the Naval Hospital, Portsmouth, Va. Subsequently, he was assigned to various naval medical facilities in South Carolina, California and Tennessee. Upon completing military service, Simms accepted a position as a primary care physician in Meridian, Miss., and was there for 20 years. Due to a desire to return to his "hometown," Simms closed his practice and relocated to Nelson County.

In Meridian, Simms had a very busy primary care practice. It has been hard to leave patients he has known for 20 years, the physician said, but he and his wife wanted to come home to their roots. They have a daughter, Kristin, 18, and a son, Christian, 14.

Now Simms will be doing primary care out of Suite 205 in the medical office building on the Flaget Memorial Hospital campus. His office opened Feb. 20. He will be treating patients of all ages from adolescents to adults with a wide variety of health problems. The office address is 4359 New Shepherdsville Road, Bardstown.

"That personal relationship where you become friends with your patients — that's the most rewarding thing," the physician said. "I'm looking forward to building relationships with my patients here. I have attempted to treat my patients the way I want to be treated — always. I have always attempted to earn and maintain that trust with my patients."

Flaget Hospital President Sue Downs, M.S.N., C.E.N.P., is confident that Simms will be of great benefit to the people of Nelson and surrounding counties, she said.

"Dr. Simms has a wealth of experience and a wonderful rapport with his patients," Downs said. "He will be a much-needed addition to our local medical community. We are proud to welcome him to the Flaget family."

To make an appointment with the physician, call Flaget Primary Care Associates at 350-5850.

About KentuckyOne Health

KentuckyOne Health was formed when two major

Kentucky health care organizations came together in 2012. KentuckyOne Health combines the Jewish and Catholic heritages of the two former systems — Jewish Hospital & St. Mary's HealthCare and Saint Joseph Health System.

The nonprofit system is committed to improving the health of Kentuckians by integrating medical research, education, technology and health care services wherever patients receive care. KentuckyOne Health has nearly 200 locations including hospitals, physician groups, clinics, primary care centers, specialty institutes and home health agencies, with more than 13,600 employees across the state of Kentucky and southern Indiana.

KentuckyOne Health is the largest health system in Kentucky and has more than 2,325 licensed beds.

Here's a sampling of events you might want to check out

Feb. 23: A Montessori Fair hosted by Montessori Schools in Lexington-Fayette, Scott, Woodford, Madison, Nelson, Clark and Jessamine counties. The event features keynote speaker Trevor Eissler, author of Montessori Madness: A Parent to Parent Argument for Montessori Education with each participating school being represented. The goal is to raise awareness and benefits of Montessori Education. Parents who are considering an educational alternative, or, anyone who is just curious to learn what Montessori is all about are invited. Montessori Schools in Lexington and the surrounding counties offer a full continuum of education from toddlers through high school so parents of children of any age should attend. The fair is at Calvary Baptist Church, 150 East High Street, Lexington.

Doors open at 6:30. Guest speaker 7-8:30 p.m.; Booths close at 9 p.m. Free and open to the public. Feb. 25: Pamela Rucker of Lancaster will demonstrate woodturning on a small lathe 10:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. at the Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea. Rucker grew up surrounded by the creative activity and influence of her parents. Her father, Gerald Cooper, is a well-known Berea woodcarver and wood turner and her mother, Joyce Cooper, was also a well-known fiber artist specializing in inkle loom weaving and machine quilting. As a young girl, Rucker was hired by her father to do the finish sanding of his candleholders. Working with her father to earn money, she came to love taking something rough and making it smooth—responding to the beauty of wood. The Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea, 200 Artisan Way, is just off Interstate 75 at Berea exit 77. The center's exhibits, shopping and travel information areas are open winter hours daily 9 a.m.-6 p.m. and the café is open 9:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. Admission is free. The center features works by more than 650 artisans from 100 counties throughout the commonwealth with a special exhibition, "An Artful Array: Bowls by Kentucky Artisans," on display through Feb. 26, and a lobby exhibition, "The Makings of a Master: Kentucky Folk Art Apprenticeships," through Feb. 26. For more information, call 859-985-5448 or visit the center's website at www.kentuckyartisancenter.ky.gov. Feb. 26-28: The Art and Soul of Lent. Three choirs. Dr. Greg Garrett of Texas, award winning author, musician, playwright to be featured at St. James Episcopal Church 401 Hwy 146, LaGrange. Morning, noon and 7 p.m. sessions. For more information, call 502-241-8136. Feb. 26: Live Nation And The Kentucky Center Present Daily Show Funny Man Lewis Black at The Brown Theatre at 7 p.m. Black is one of the most prolific and popular performers working today. He executes a popular trifecta as a stand-up comedian, actor and author with a pessimistic and angry twist. Tickets start at $37.75. Flu epidemic causes heavy absenteeism

The flu epidemic in Nelson County has reached such proportions that there is great absenteeism in the schools. At Bethlehem Academy, Bardstown, Sister Raymunda, principal, said that 130 pupils were out of school due to illness. One teacher is also ill. In the Bardstown city schools 33 were absent Wednesday, as compared to 78 Tuesday and 75 Monday, Superintendent H.T. Cooper stated. Some schools throughout the state are closed because of the high percentage of absent pupils.  BORN: James Patrick to Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, Feb. 13; Thomas Rudolph to Mr. and Mr. Earl Downs, Feb. 14; Larry Steven to Mr. and Mrs. Chester Boone, Feb. 15; Connie Lou to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Trent, Feb. 15; Linda to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Stone, Feb. 16;

Hats Off to Good Behavior

Students in Krystal Mattingly's first-grade class show off the hats they wore to school for earning 10 compliments from staff members. Students strive to show good behavior and use nice manners in order to earn compliments and then are rewarded with a special day.

Serving Others through Action

ABOVE — Learning the importance of service through action, Bluegrass Christian Academy fourth-, fifth- and sixth-graders entertain residents at Colonial Health and Rehabilitation Center in Bardstown.

AT RIGHT — Providing service through action, Bluegrass Christian Academy sixth-grader Brandon Wells assists a resident at Colonial Health and Rehabilitation Center so she can join the others to enjoy the entertainment.

DEFENDANTS

By virtue of a Judgment and Order of Sale entered in the Nelson Circuit Court on May 20, 2009, in the above action Plaintiff is owed $101,785.35, with interest thereon at the rate of $15.49 per diem from November 1, 2008 until paid, plus other charges. I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Bardstown, Nelson County, Kentucky, on Wednesday, March 14, 2012 at 9:30 A.M., E.S.T., or thereabouts, the following tract of land, together with any improvements, located in Nelson County, Kentucky, and being more particularly described as follows:

101 Grundy Drive, Bardstown, KY 40004

Being Lot 371 of Cottage Grove Estates, Phase VII, as depicted upon Plat of same recorded in Plat Cabinet 6, Slot 149, in the office of the Clerk of Nelson County, Kentucky.

The successful bidder may pay the purchase price on the day of sale in cash, or in the alternative, upon a credit of thirty (30) days, with twenty percent (20%) being paid in cash on the day of sale, and a bond for the balance of the purchase price with interest at twelve percent (12%) per annum from the date of sale, which shall be executed by the purchaser with approved surety, made payable to the Master Commissioner, having the full force and effect of a judgment, and a lien shall be retained by the Commissioner securing the payment of the purchase price. The buyer will be responsible for taxes from the year the Judgment was entered to the present date. The Master Commissioner will make a good faith effort to obtain and pay all taxes or assessments upon the property for prior years if there are sufficient funds from the sale to do so, after expenses, however this cannot be guaranteed. The property shall be sold free and clear of all non-tax lien parties named in the above-styled action, but subject to any recorded easements and rights of way, any facts which an inspection or accurate survey might reveal, and zoning regulations of Nelson County, Kentucky.

The Master Commissioner does not obtain title inspections or investigate for liens on the property. The purchaser is responsible for title inspection and/or any additional liens not named in the Judgment and Order of Sale.

The purchaser may take possession of the property pursuant to the terms of the judgment. If the judgment does not make provision for possession the buyer may seek possession of the property through the court system after payment of the full purchase price. You can contact my office for additional information.

The real estate is to be sold as a whole, subject to those items set out above. Neither the Plaintiff, Nelson Circuit Court nor the Master Commissioner's office warrants title to any purchaser. Said property is sold subject to the Judgment and Order of Sale in this case which should be reviewed carefully prior to purchase.

An acceptable surety must be present at the sale to sign a bond and the surety may not be the spouse of the purchaser(s). A surety shall not be necessary if the full purchase price is immediately paid at the time of sale. Any payments must be acceptable to the Master Commissioner in his sole discretion.

Bidders will be prepared to promptly comply with the above terms.

The President's List was established by the university to recognize outstanding academic achievement. It is bestowed upon full-time undergraduate students who attain a perfect 4.0 grade-point average for a semester.

Eastern Kentucky University is a comprehensive university serving more than 16,000 students on its Richmond campus, at its educational centers in Corbin, Danville, Manchester, Somerset and Lancaster, and throughout Kentucky.

Principal leadership

Jason Detre, center, principal of New Haven School, is one of 47 school principals to recently graduate from the Leadership Institute for School Principals. Detre's participation was sponsored by the Kentucky Chamber Foundation, AT&T Foundation and Ann-Michelle and Bill Tatum. The program provided executive-level leadership training from the Center for Creative Leadership. Pictured with Detre are Kentucky Chamber President and CEO Dave Adkisson and Kentucky Education Commissioner Terry Holliday.

Wilson makes DePaul Dean's List

Cameron Wilson, Bardstown, made the Dean's List at DePaul University for the fall quarter of 2011. In order to qualify for the Dean's List at DePaul, students must earn above a 3.0 grade-point average on a four-point scale. With more than 25,000 students, DePaul University is the largest Catholic university in the United States.

Local students graduate from Morehead State University

The list of graduates for the 2011 Fall Commencement exercises at Morehead State University include:

- Tyler Burba, Bardstown, Bachelor of Science degree,
- Amanda Zabenco, Fairfield, Bachelor of Science degree.

MSU is an affirmative action, equal opportunity, educational institution.

At Morehead State University, you will find "much more" than you might imagine. We are much more than college classes ... much more engaged ... much more personal. We provide a safe campus environment that is much more welcoming and student-friendly. We deliver a quality, affordable education in a student-focused learning environment. Our students thrive in small classes taught by dedicated faculty and staff committed to student success. We are much more than a regional partner... and much more than an alma mater. We are committed to enriching the lives of those we serve. At MSU, we aspire to be the best public regional university in the South. Visit www.moreheadstate.edu/aspire to learn "much more" about MSU's mission, vision, and values.

Two graduate from University of the Cumberlands

The following Nelson County students graduated from University of the Cumberlands in January:

- Christopher Hicks, Bardstown, Master of Arts in Teaching degree in Secondary Education.
- Kimberly Landreth,

Cox's Creek, Master of Arts in Education degree in Read Write Specialist P to 12.

UC graduated 304 students conferring 74 baccalaureate degrees, 228 master's degrees, and two doctorate degrees.

This marked the inaugural graduation class for the Physician Assistant (PA) program as there were 28 students who received their master's degree.

Located in Williamsburg, Ky., University of the Cumberlands is an institution of regional distinction, which currently offers four undergraduate degrees in more than 40 major fields of study; nine pre-professional programs; seven graduate degrees, including a doctorate and six master's degrees; certifications in education; and online programs.

CIVIL ACTION NO. 11-CI-881	NELSON CIRCUIT COURT
DIVISION NO. 1
LINCOLN NATIONAL BANK	PLAINTIFF
NOTICE OF SALE
LAURIE CATLETT, et al.	DEFENDANTS
By virtue of a Judgment and Order of Sale entered in the Nelson Circuit Court on February 2, 2012 in the above action Plaintiff is owed $72,975.76, with interest thereon from August 9, 2011, until paid, plus other charges. I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Bardstown, Nelson County, Kentucky, on Wednesday, March 14, 2012 at 10:45 A.M., E.S.T., or thereabouts, the following tract of land, together with any improvements, located in Nelson County, Kentucky, and being more particularly described as follows:
110 Emerald Court, Bardstown, KY 40004
Being Tract 48 of Whispering Hills Estates, Phase I, as shown on plat recorded in Plat Cabinet 4, Slot 109, in the Clerk's Office of the Nelson County Court.
The successful bidder may pay the purchase price on the day of sale in cash, or in the alternative, upon a credit of thirty (30) days, with ten percent (10%) being paid in cash on the day of sale, and a bond for the balance of the purchase price with interest at twelve percent (12%) per annum from the date of sale, which shall be executed by the purchaser with approved surety, made payable to the Master Commissioner, having the full force and effect of a judgment, and a lien shall be retained by the Commissioner securing the payment of the purchase price. The buyer will be responsible for taxes from the year the Judgment was entered to the present date. The Master Commissioner will make a good faith effort to obtain and pay all taxes or assessments upon the property for prior years if there are sufficient funds from the sale to do so, after expenses, however this cannot be guaranteed. The property shall be sold free and clear of all non-tax lien parties named in the above-styled action, but subject to any recorded easements and rights of way, any facts which an inspection or accurate survey might reveal, and zoning regulations of Nelson County, Kentucky.
The Master Commissioner does not obtain title inspections or investigate for liens on the property. The purchaser is responsible for title inspection and/or any additional liens not named in the Judgment and Order of Sale.
The purchaser may take possession of the property pursuant to the terms of the judgment. If the judgment does not make provision for possession the buyer may seek possession of the property through the court system after payment of the full purchase price. You can contact my office for additional information.
The real estate is to be sold as a whole, subject to those items set out above. Neither the Plaintiff, Nelson Circuit Court nor the Master Commissioner's office warrants title to any purchaser. Said property is sold subject to the Judgment and Order of Sale in this case which should be reviewed carefully prior to purchase.
An acceptable surety must be present at the sale to sign a bond and the surety may not be the spouse of the purchaser(s). A surety shall not be necessary if the full purchase price is immediately paid at the time of sale. Any payments must be acceptable to the Master Commissioner in his sole discretion.
Bidders will be prepared to promptly comply with the above terms.
This 14th day of February, 2012.

Ex-girlfriend wants to remain friends, but without benefits

DEAR ABBY: I dated a guy named “Jake” for two years. He was my first love and he meant everything to me. Well, things happened and he broke my heart.

After a year of not really talking, Jake is now texting and calling to convince me to be his “friend with benefits.” He tries to sweet-talk me by calling me pet names. Of course, I say no over and over each time he asks on the phone. But the minute we come face-to-face or hang out, I just give in.

There will always be a soft spot for Jake in my heart, and I don’t know what to do. I want to stay friends because he’s important to me, but I don’t want to be his FWB. It brings back painful memories.

How do I say no? Am I overreacting? Should I go with the flow because it’s not a big deal? I feel like I’m in a script for a bad movie.

WANTS TO MOVE ON IN HOUSTON

DEAR WANTS TO MOVE ON: Your ex-boyfriend appears to be a super salesman. The best way not to buy what he’s selling

JEANNE PHILLIPS

DEAR ABBY
Syndicated columnist

is not to listen to his pitch. The sooner you accept you can’t be “friends” because you lose control whenever you see him, the sooner you’ll be able to write a happy ending to this drama. As long as you sleep with Jake you will not be able to replace him with someone who can give you what you want and deserve, which is a real relationship.

DEAR ABBY: “Patrick,” my boyfriend of three years, is smart, successful and wonderful in every way. He dresses extremely well with attention to detail. Many of his friends call him a “metrosexual.”

Patrick never had braces as a child. Now, as an adult, his teeth have caved in and are very unattractive. It surprises me that he would let his teeth go or hasn’t noticed how crooked and deformed they are. I’m afraid to mention it in case it would hurt his feelings. As we are thinking about marriage, the prospect of having to look at Patrick’s bad teeth, that will likely worsen with age, is a deterrent.

Am I being petty and superficial or should I suggest adult braces? Patrick can more than afford them and isn’t afraid of pain or going to the doctor. My own lower teeth could use some work, so maybe I could suggest both of us get braces. I’m not sure what to do.

BRACING FOR AN ANSWER IN BOULDER

DEAR BRACING: By all means talk with your boyfriend about the condition of his mouth as well as good dental health. If his teeth are as crooked as you have described, his bite is probably also off — which can cause jaw problems when he’s older. Your idea of getting braces with him is a good one, and I agree it’s worth pursuing because you won’t appear to be criticizing him. I hope he heeds your suggestion.

DEAR ABBY: My landlord likes to wander around the yard and driveway wearing only a towel around his waist. Sometimes he goes out of his way to talk with me while “dressed” that way. Should I be concerned?

CALIFORNIA RENTER DEAR RENTER: Probably not, unless his towel “slips,” or California experiences more gale-force winds such as the ones that occurred last December.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You’ll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★ You follow through on your instincts with someone you look up to. Communicate what you feel is necessary. Perhaps revealing more of your thoughts would be helpful. Tonight: Vanish while you can.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★★★ You know exactly what you want and where you are going. You also easily convince others of your sense of direction. You have supporters and a strong understanding of your goals. When these factors blend, you head toward success. Tonight: Let the good times begin.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★★ While you thought you could relax, you discover that that might be an impossibility. Wherever you are, no matter what your plans are, you will step up to the plate. Responsibilities weigh heavily on your shoulders. Tonight: A family member is on the warpath.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★★ Revise your thoughts about a partner or loved one. You could be seeing only what you want, and/or you are not recognizing a change in this person’s behavior. Be careful when handling machinery, as your mind might not be focused. Tonight: Follow the music.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★★ Build a key relationship on common ground. Whether this bond is new or old, you will notice where change might be good. A struggle over finances could happen. Your words might be more defensive than you realize. Tonight: Order in.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★★ You might be far more sarcastic or angry than you realize. Creative distractions and ideas can camouflage what is really going on, even with you. When animosity breaks out with a partner or friend, look within to see what is going on with you. Tonight: Get past a hassle.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★★★ What you feel is appropriate with someone in your daily life probably is. However, for some reason anger could break out before you can have a conversation with this person. Do not overthink a situation, if possible. Tonight: Do what you want.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★★ A meeting could be more important than you realize. You could be drawn to one specific person, or just believe that he or she is very special. Observe more before making a decision. Might you be putting this person on a pedestal? Tonight: Where the fun is.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★★ Stay centered and direct when dealing with a family member about a property issue. You might want to revise your thinking about a money matter. An investment might not be as good as you think it is. Someone you look up to is very irritable. Tonight: Happy close to home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★★ Your perspective is subject to change. What you originally thought was OK might not be the case now. The more you learn, the fewer judgments you will make. Make sure your goals transform with your intellect. Tonight: Get extra rest.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★★ Your perspective of a financial matter changes rapidly and gives you yet a different point of view. How you viewed yourself several years ago is substantially different than now. You are in a period of transition. Tonight: Chores.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★★ Defer to others, even if you are sure of yourself. You don’t need to prove that you are right over and over again. Let others come to that conclusion on their own. Tonight: Someone you care about becomes feisty. Let this person be.

4 1/2 to 1

61% of Kentuckians say newspapers are their primary source for advertising information .

13% mentioned another medium.

That's a 4 1/2-to-1 advantage for newspapers.

If it were a basketball game, you'd be leaving at half-time.

It's all right here. In the newspaper.

This fact brought to you by the Kentucky Press Association and its 162 member newspapers.

LEAP YEAR!

It takes 365 days for the Earth to travel around the sun. Well, almost.

Actually, it takes 365 days, 5 hours, 49 minutes and over 12 seconds for the Earth to orbit the sun. An actual new year occurs each time the Earth returns to the same spot in its solar orbit.

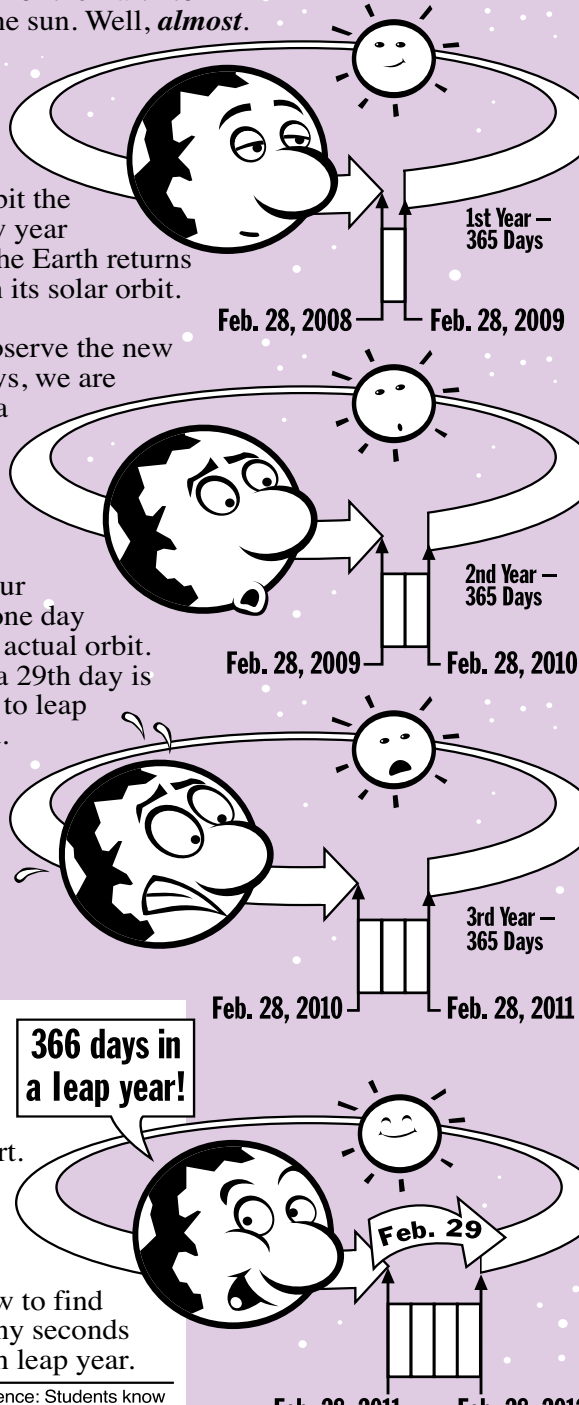

But because we observe the new year every 365 days, we are really celebrating a little sooner than when the Earth returns to that spot in its orbit.

After four years, our calendar is about one day behind the Earth's actual orbit. To make up time, a 29th day is added to February to leap the calendar ahead. On February 29, the Earth is back to the same position where it was four years earlier. Almost.

Code Clue
Each leap year, we fall about  minutes and  seconds short. Eventually, this will add up to 24 hours.

Use the code below to find out about how many seconds we are behind each leap year.

Leapin' Lizards!

And frogs, kangaroos and fleas! Lots of animals in the world can leap. Even people. Meet some of the world's finest leapers:

KANGAROOS

Kangaroos don't jump very high, but they can jump far.

An American football field is 100 yards. A kangaroo can jump 20 feet in one leap. How many jumps would it take a kangaroo to cover a football field?

Fantastic Fleas!

Of the 1,830 varieties of fleas, the champion jumper is the cat flea. It has been known to leap to a height of 34 inches. That would be like a person leaping over 1,000 feet!

Graph It!

Read the following facts. Then complete the chart.

A frog can jump 20 times its body length. A kangaroo can jump 4.5 times its body length. A kitten can jump 3 times its body length. A flea can jump 150 times its body length!

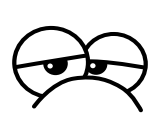

Animal	Body Lengths (times body length)
Flea	150
Frog	20
Kitten	3
Kangaroo	4.5

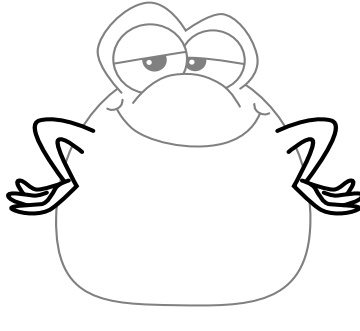

Standards Link: Data Analysis: Interpret information on a graph.

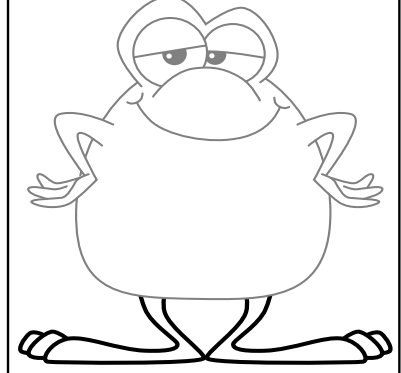

Let's Draw It!

Follow each step below to draw a frog, one of nature's best jumpers. Then, visit www.kidscoop.com for lots more step-by-step animals to draw!
